Accessibility and ADA Compliance Checklist for Organizations

The North Carolina Arts Council is committed to supporting access to arts experiences for all individuals and communities. Organizations and projects funded by the North Carolina Arts Council must be accessible to persons with disabilities. By signing the general terms and conditions of the grant contract, you are certifying that your organization will comply with Section 504 of the federal Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, as well as the update from 2010.

Grant recipients should complete this form to indicate the services and accommodations currently offered at their organizations. Your responses should reflect the project in the application. If the application is for an entire year, all venues/ facilities utilized in the year should be considered. If the location of the project takes place on a larger campus/facility, focus your responses on the project's location.

This checklist serves as one tool to evaluate your organization's accessibility, document legal compliance, and to provide guidance in achieving open and inclusive programming that is available to all. The checklist will also help us to collect data to better understand the practice of accessibility in the arts sector.

For questions or further information and resources regarding your organization's accessibility, please contact Jamie Katz Court, Music and Dance Director & Accessibility Coordinator, by email at jamie.katzcourt@dncr.nc.gov or by phone at (919) 814-6502.

Checklist created with the assistance of the National Endowment for the Arts, the Southeast ADA Center, and the Office of Raleigh Arts.

Who is your organization's accessibility coordinator?

To be in compliance with federal law and your grant contract, your organization MUST have an accessibility coordinator. This person can be a designated staff member, volunteer, board member, or member of your organization's accessibility advisory committee:

FAQs and Resources

Does accessibility only relate to access to a physical building or space?

There are many ways a person may interact with your facility or program. This checklist serves as a beginner-friendly tool for evaluating your organization's physical, communication, and programmatic accessibility. We also recommend connecting with artists and people with disabilities in your community to learn more about ways you can provide meaningful and inclusive arts experiences and access.

Our organization is based in a historic building, how can we be more accessible?

Almost every space and program can be modified to be accessible and inclusive for audiences and participants with disabilities. This may include providing temporary ramps, re-thinking the physical layout of your space to be more inclusive, or relocating your programs. If you have specific questions or concerns about your building's accessibility, please contact North Carolina Arts Council staff (ncarts.org/grant-application-resources-and-assistance).

We are renting the space or do not own the physical space where our performance, exhibition, or program will take place. Are we required to make sure the space is accessible?

Yes, any program that receives funding from the North Carolina Arts Council must be both physically and programmatically accessible. As a grant recipient you are responsible for ensuring compliance of all aspects of your grant-funded program with ADA/section 504 standards and best practices.

My organization is a division of a town/municipality, school or university. Does this apply to us?

An overall organization having an accessibility plan or accessibility coordinator does not by itself achieve the spirit of why we ask for this information if there's little to no practical application to the grant-supported programs. Your responses should indicate the specifics of how accessibility applies to the programs supported by the grant funds. This checklist is designed to provide some guideposts for areas to consider in your planning.

Is "No" an acceptable answer?

Yes. This checklist lists the variety of accommodations or considerations that should be part of the planning process for any program. While you may not be able to answer "Yes" to every question, your Accessibility Plan should address the procedures and timeline to include this in the future.
